

Centrecare's New Kalgoorlie Office 168 Egan St

CENTRECARE
"People Making Time for People"

Centrecare is pleased to announce the completion of our new Kalgoorlie office. Operations commenced from this building on 30th November 2010.

Since 1989 there has been a dramatic expansion of Centrecare's services and in recent years there have been an ongoing number of requests to deliver services across the Goldfields - Esperance region from a variety of both federal and state departments.

Existing facilities in Dugan, Maxwell and Millen Street served the organisation's needs for over a decade and in 2003 Centrecare recognised that these facilities would be unable to meet the long term accommodation needs of its Goldfields operations.

In considering the requirements of the region, the growth of the services being provided and the consequent need to provide additional office space for staff, it became apparent that a new purpose built facility was required.

In February 2004, Centrecare purchased the land at 168 Egan Street, with the primary aim of constructing a new Goldfields service centre.

A design brief was developed to ensure the new facility would be environmentally sustainable, accommodate the demands of a growing community sector and meet the current and future needs of Centrecare's range of services.

In July 2009, Anderson Building Company of Kalgoorlie was awarded the contract for construction of the new building. Robert Fishwick from R. B. Fishwick and Associates oversaw the construction in his capacity as project coordinator. Construction commenced and continued for the next 16 months.

Kalgoorlie staff were finally able to move into their new building over the weekend of 27th and 28th of November. The move went extremely well, which included moving Dugan St., Maxwell St. and Millen St. offices over the same weekend.

A big thank you to all staff involved for helping to make this move possible.

The new building is absolutely beautiful with the design having a focus on light and airy workspaces and also being environmentally friendly.

Centrecare Kalgoorlie has approximately 47 full time equivalent staff members and delivers 36 contracts for services such as: family and relationship counselling, supported accommodation, crisis intervention, transitional training and education programs, mental health support, child contact post separation services and community drug service teams. The service area covers over 800,000 square kilometres throughout rural and remote Western Australia.
